at the Indianapolis clubhouse a few evenings ago. "There is a remarkable interest being taken in cycling now and races, say every Saturday afternoon, should attract a fair crowd. This club or some athletic club ought to take the matter up and build a track. Say, three or four races would be given once a week, between local riders, it would surely draw a crowd and be right in line with the interest now being taken."

This remark calls attention to the fact that Indianapolis wheelmen have no place devoted exclusively for bicycle races and there is no place where riders can train. The driving club does not allow bicycles on their track at the fair grounds except for a few days previous to bicycle races. In most cities there is a bicycle track, suitable for training, which also makes bicycle matinees possible.

FAIRS WILL SOON BE SETTLED.

Receiver McGettigan's Case Against Southwell Comes Up in Circuit Court Monday.

The sult of Receiver McGettigan, of the remier Steel Company, against Henry E. Southwell, a Chicago capitalist, and others, will come up in the Circuit Court to-morrow. With the disposition of this suit the litigation arising from the assignment of the Premier Steel Company will be closed $300,000 bond issue of July 7, 1891, when a mortgage covering the entire plant in this city was executed. The Bank of Commerce, of Indianapolis, and the American Trust and Savings Bank, of Chicago, became trustees for the bonds, and are parties to the suit. The allegations in the com-Cohen, secretary of the Premier company, went to Chicago shortly after the bonds were issued and borrowed $70,000 of Henry Southwell. The latter was to take $100,000 worth of bonds and advance another loan of $30,000. It was agreed by Cohen and Southwell that the mortgage executed by the company should not be placed on the Marion county records unless the Chicago capitalist should fail to raise the $30,000. In this Southwell did fail, and the mortgage was recorded here. The receiver brought suit to set aside the mortgage on the grounds that it was not properly executed by the officers of the Premier company, and that the defendant Southwell, in agreeing to keep it off the records, was lending himself to a fraud on other creditors.

The American Trust and Savings Bank and the Bank of Commerce, trustees for the bondholders, have come in with a cross-complaint, and ask to have the mortgage foreclosed. C. W. DePauw got $200,000 worth of bonds, and seeks to hold these as collateral security for indorsements he avers he has made on the paper of the Premier Steel Company. The receiver says in his complaint that the bonds were never delivered to Mr. DePauw, and charges that he took them from the safe. The litigants are represented by the following attorneys: D. P. Baldwin, of Logansport, and Blackledge & Thornton, of this city, for Henry Southwell; Ayers & Jones, Elliott & Elliott and W. H. H. Miller, for the receiver; Mason & Latta, for the Bank of Commerce, and McBride & Denny, for the American Trust and Savings Bank. Attorney-general Ketcham will appear for several lien creditors.. well that the mortgage executed by the

A NEW ENVELOPE OPENER.

Happy Discovery of a Drummer That Will Net Him a Fortune.

The story goes that recently a traveling salesman hit upon a simple but very valuable invention. While on the road he received a letter from his home in Chicago and proceeded to open it by slipping his knife blade under the fold and cutting along the edge lengthwise. Upon taking out the inclosure he found that he had cut a bank draft in two. The circumstance annoyed him and he began trying to think of some way to open a letter without endangering the contents. While thus engaged a bright idea occurred to him. Taking an unused envelope he secured a small string, moistened it with mucilage and laid it along the crease formed by the open fold of the envelope, formed by the open fold of the envelope, leaving one end of the string extending outside about a quarter of an inch. He then fastened the envelope in the ordinary way and let the mucilage dry. A few minutes later he picked up the envelope, took hold of the exposed end of the string, gave it a quick pull at an acute angle from its line of direction, and, presto! the envelope was open, the long way.

The drummer looked at his work and laughed at the cleverness of it. As he gazed at it the thought suddenly struck him that he had stumbled on his fortune. Twenty-four hours later he and his attorney were on their way to Washington city. Arriving at the Pater! Office they found that nothing of the kind had ever been offered and proceeded to take out a patent. They also protected the drummer's rights in foreign countries. Returning home the salesman reported at his house in Chicago. His employer criticised him sharply, asking him where he had been. The drummer showed his discovery and explained his absence. The wholesale man became intensely interested and finally offered the inventor $100,000 for his patent. The offer was declined. The story may sound fishy, but there is no manner of doubt as to the utility and richness of the discovery.

THE HALE-M'LEOD MATCH.

The Californian to Throw the Hoosier Three Times in an Hour.

Indianapolis will see one of the liveliest wrestling matches ever known in this section of the country when Herb Hale and Dan McLeod meet at English's Opera House Monday evening, May 6. McLeod is to throw Hale three times within an hour and the Indianapolis wrestler is confident the Californian cannot do it. In fact the betting is already in Hale's favor, some of his riends offering odds on him. While Mc-Leod, probably, outclasses him, the Indiana man is so clever and strong that he looks like a winner especially with the strangle hold and flying falls barred. Mc-Leod has a fine record, having defeated such men as McInerney, Miller, Acton, Perrie and others. He is a "tip-notch" catch-as-catch-can wrestler and has a long record of victories, his first notable one being over Tom McInerney in San Francisco in 1890, McLeod at that time being almost unknown. He wrestles at 165 pounds and his measurements are: Height, 5 feet 7 inches; chest, 45½ inches; waist, 34 inches; hips, 40 inches; thigh, 23½ inches; calf, 15½ inches; biceps, 16 inches; neck, 18 inches. McLeod is one of the fairest wrestlers on the mat and his reputation is clean in every way.

This contest at a high-class theater will give everybody an opportunity to enjoy what seems to be one of the popular fads just now—wrestling. Ladles who care for athletics can see these two athletes battle next Monday night. The match is for $200 a side and a purse of $400. ana man is so clever and strong that he

HOLMAN A POOR MAN.

Spent Much Money in Entertaining Hoosiers at Washington.

Great injustice, said Congressman-elect Watson, the other day, "has been done to Mr. Holman in representing that he is a enurious man. It comes of his objecting in the House for thirty years. He is nothing of the kind. With his own money he is a liberal man and always has been. He always carried change with him while in Washington that he might relieve those who asked assistance and seemed to be who asked assistance and seemed to be worthy. If he had the money that he has spent in Washington in entertaining Indianians while visiting the capital, he would be better off than he now is. He always paid attention to Indiana visitors, regardless, of their politics, not to gain votes but in the true spirit of hospitality. In such ways he was a model Representative. No man ever made an inquiry by mail of him who did not get an answer. These traits are the secrets of his strength at the polls. To-day, he is a poor man, despite what people who do not know may say of him."

The Ringling Bros.' Circus. Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows will be the first arenic exhibition to visit Indianapolis this year. So far as this city is concerned, it is a new show. The date in Indianapolis is Monday, May 20. The show makes a specialty of novel features. Among these are the Eddy family of acrobats, the three Da Comas, aerial performers; the Landauer troupe of nine flexible models, in a reproduction of statuary; the Ty-Bells, in a new and unique performance on the breakaway ladder; Charles W. Fish, Mike Rooney, Cecile Lowande, Edward Shipp, Daniel Leon, William Devan, M'lle, Elena, Julia Lowande, Marian Lesile and other bareback riders; Rose Stickney and her wonderfully-trained school of dogs; Joe Lewis, contortionist; the famous Miaco family of clowns and acrobats; the Mayos, grotesque skatorial artists; Akimoto's troupe of imperial Japanese equilibrists, and many other features. Added to all this is Sig. A. Liberati's superb military band of sixty soloists, in a grand musical festival, beginning one hour before the regular performance. The paraphernalia used is declared to be the most massive and the most attractive ever made for a circus. The parameter tents ers; the Landauer troupe of nine flexible

INDIANA'S VALUABLE CLAYS.

State Geologist Thinks He Has Made

Important Finds.

State Geologist Blatchley was in his office yesterday after a week spent in the field investigating the clays of the State. He found one that he believes will lead to the development of a great drain tile industry. It is a shale found in the coal deposits in illimitable quantities in Vermillion county. It lies under a seam of oal and great quantities of it has been as waste material. Professor Blatchley thinks it would prove itself worth more to ties than the mines themselves. Another valuable shale of which Professor Blatchley brought home samples is suitable for fire brick. It is a stratum six feet thick, ten miles long and one mile wide. It is as good as any of the deposits in Ohio which have caused the fire brick and the tile drain industry to take such enormous strides of development there. Still another clay was found in abundance of the kind that the terra cotta factories use. The present supply for the terra cotta industry in this city is shipped from Owensboro, Ky., but Indiana has plenty of such clay of equal quality. Professor Blatchely is investigating the qualities of a clay known as "slip," a drift marl which is found in great quantities in Rush county. He thinks it will be found available for use in the pottery industry of western Indiana, which now buys glazing clay in Albany, N. Y. The Indiana sample that he has is a little lighter in color, but has much the same quality. He has sent a barrel of it to the potters for experiments to be made in the kilns on the ground. Professor Blatchley has a sample of the red roof tilling that has just begun to be made in Montezuma. It is of a reddish orange color and is capable of enduring in all kinds of weather. A supply of alcohol has been purchased for the State auseum at a cost of 60 cents a gallon. It was bought by the former Geologist by the gallon at $3 a gallon, he not taking advantage of the law, which permits alcohol to be used free of tax for educational purposes. ley brought home samples is suitable for

CALL TO COLLEGE WORK.

Rev. John C. Marting Appointed Financial Agent of a College.

Rev. John C. Marting, for the past four and one-half years pastor of the First German Methodist Episcopal Church, of this city, has received a call to college work. About ten days ago the vice president, treasurer and financial agent of German Wallace College, at Berea (a suburb of Cleveland), O., died. At a special meeting of the trustees of the institution, held last Monday, Rev. Mr. Marting was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy. In case the tion of the board of trustees, he will, no doubt, soon remove from this city. The position is one of importance, as the financial agent has been, in fact, the chancellor of Mr. Marting was born in Scioto county, Ohio, his parents having shortly before emigrated to this country. After attending the country school of the neighborhood and assisting on the farm, he entered German Wallace College, where he was fitted for his future work. For five years he was teacher in Scioto county; quitting this profession he went into business, which he finally gave up went into business, which he finally gave up and entered the Central German Conference. His first appointment was Indianapolis, the Second Church, then a mission. From thence he was removed to Palestine and Greenville, O., after which he spent seven years in Cincinnati, having unusual success on Walnut Hills. Five years ago he was sent to the First Church here. Since he took up the work here he has, in addition to looking after the interests of his charge, built two new mission chapels, one on the corner of Church and Morris and the other on Clifford avenue.

In the past few months Mr. Marting has In the past few months Mr. Marting has been greatly interested in the deaconess and Protestant hospital movement in this city. He was elected on the board of trustees and is vice president of it. He is in his prime, being forty-two years old, and full of push and vigor, but conservative and a careful manager when the surroundings demand it.

A LOCKOUT OF PAINTERS.

Masters' Association Decides Not to Appoint Union Men.

The Masters Painters' Association of this city yesterday decided to lock out union painters employed by the members. The action was taken because of the course pursued by the union toward one firm of the association, J. H. Ballman. A member of the union last evening said to the Jour-

"We objected to the employing of non-union men by Ballman and the union men working for him quit. The association re-taliated by declaring a lockout. We under-stand that they want to test the union question. But this is a busy time of year and I think the trouble will be settled within a few days." and I think the trouble will be settled within a few days."

There are six firms belonging to the association. They are J. H. Ballman, F. J. Mack & Co., W. A. Johnson, Joseph R. Adams, Fertig & Keevers and William Muecke. There was a meeting of the association as soon as it was announced that Ballman's men had refused to work and the members of the association decided to force the differences to a settlement and not await a general strike, which they thought was sure to result. The trouble with Mr. Ballman's men all arose over the employment of a nonunion workmen, who refused to join the union and with whom the union men refused to work. About one hundred men are employed by the members of the association and they will be thrown out of work, awaiting a settlement of the differences. The association claims there are not enough union men in claims there are not enough union men in the city to do the work and they are there-fore compelled to go outside for nonunion

Rev. Mr. Smith's Soundness. It is reported that the Christian Women's Board of Missions has summoned Rev. J. C. Smith, of the Butler University theological department, to appear and be examined as to his soundness. Mr. Smith was once missionary to Jamaica. The board ora missionary to Jamaica. The board ordered him back, and a contract was formed for his return. He made preparations, but it leaked out that Mr. Smith, although conforming in views with the board regarding the divinity of Christ, differs somewhat on the atonement question. Members of the board refuse to either deny or confirm the report, but say the question of Rev. Mr.
Smith's soundness has never been considered by the board.

Water Chutes for Fair Grounds. A contract was closed yesterday by company of this city with the Paul Boynton company, of Chicago, for the erection of a water chute in this city this season. a water chute in this city this season. Manager McLean, of the street car company, heads the company, and it is proposed to build the chute near the fair grounds. The chute is said to resemble a toboggan slide, with a pool of water at the bottom. Passengers enter cars at the top, and, after sliding down, are run under water. The cars resemble boats. The same company has built chutes in many of the leading cities of the world, and everywhere they have been popular.

Officials of the Knights of Pythias say the recent order of the Catholic Church prohibiting members of the church belonging to secret societies has had no effect upon their membership. In this city no members of the organization are reported as having withdrawn because of the order, although there are several hundred Catholics who are also Knights. Frank Bowers, grand keeper of records and seal of the organization, says no withdrawals have been reported to him from other towns in the State because of the order.

FRANCIS COFFIN SERIOUSLY ILL.

His Lawyers Say He Will Not Be Able to Be in Court Wednesday.

It is expected that United States District Attorney Burke will move in the federal court to set the cases against F. A. and Percival B. Coffin for trail on May 1. The same motion will be made in the Schuyler Haughey case. A telegram was received yesterday from New York saying that Francis A. Coffin was seriously ill with gastric fever, erysipelas and nervous prostration and would not be able in all probability to be present according to the order of the court. The attorneys for Coffin notified the court that they would have the sworn certificate of the physician in the case within a few days. Percival B. Coffin is on his way here from New Mexico.

Great Rug Collection. It is a matter of some surprise to a great many residents of Indianapolis that so fine and elegant a collection of genuine and rare Oriental rugs and carpets as shown by Mr. Azop Aleon, of Armenia, at Nos. 18 and 20 Monument place (Circle street), next Plaza Hotel, opposite soldiers monument, can come to Indianapolis, be properly advertised and not bring together a greater number of people. This very Aleon collection is one of the finest, richest and most complete display of typical and representative examples of Oriental weaving ever shown. The colorings are mellow, harmonious and blending; the designs are of royal conception and their conditions are excellent.
